The Unemployment Rate is dropping, the economy is growing at a good clip, and The Dow has passed 12,000. Are we out of the woods? When did you last hear the term “double dip recession?”

Unrest abroad is keeping U.S. investors on alert as news rolls in from the Middle East and other global hot spots. Finally, concerns over the national debt, spending, the strength of the dollar and continued government stimulus efforts keep us wondering about interest rates and future inflation.

Discovering What's Next®, with the support of The Village Bank, invites you to the fourth in our Discover Realities Financial Markets Update series.

Join local investment professionals Jim Thompson and Pat Baillieul of Village Financial Partners for this discussion and outlook as 2011 unfolds.
